We are not to give it up, that is a book about shipping. I am interested. It was not my interest in the least to buy, but particular book may soon than any other one.

Was any enquiry made at the Bank that day as to what had become of the Land Investment Co.'s cheques?—No.

Did you make any attempt there and then to ascertain whether I received the particular document which that cheque passed through the office?—No.

Did it not strike you as necessary or useful to have done?—I cannot say. The auditor was making inquiry as well as myself.

I suppose that means the auditor was doing it when you were looking on?—No. I was helping him.

Did you understand the possible bearings at the moment?—At the moment I must say it pleased me.

Is that the only one of the current books that is missing?—No, there are several other counterfoiled books of 1892 missing too, and daily collection books.

At what did you see any of those last?—I saw them when I was in the room.

After a month or two passes was there any necessity for keeping these daily collection books after the accounts had been closed?—They ought not to be destroyed. They are not filed or stored in any particular place, however.

Once they are posted there is an end of them?—Except as records.

What is in the journal?—It is a regular book-keeping journal from which the entries in the ledger are made up.

Mrs. Francis at this point intimated that he could not give any further with the cross-examination of the auditor. Treasurer and other witnesses had been called.

Mr. Johnson also agreed to postpone his re-examination.

The Court then adjourned until 10.30 this morning.

HONGKONG CORINTHIAN SAILING CLUB.

After blowing all the wind took a day off last Sunday, and as usual the Corinthian had a lot of practice at drifting. At times, however, there were pleasant breezes, and then, with a bright sun to warm the crew, a pleasant sailing was experienced.

Ladybird's boat was won by a draw in the competition of the day. The weather was quite out of the common, so that she had a fine exhibition of Payne on both the short windward trips. The latter, however, had her revenge to leeward and was lucky enough to be able to catch the last air first, which won her the race.

Kitten's boat was flying like a witch; it did not stop for a minute, and so long as it was not changing her sail, she had done no good all this season with her last year's foul sail.

TWELFTH CLASS RACE:

Course—from S. M. E. round Cow-sail and West Mindful buoy, leaving them to starboard and Green Island, leaving it to port, and finish from W. to E. 15 miles.

Start—Champion's Club.

Dark ... lug. 1.4 ... 3rd Regiment

Ladybird ... lug. 1.4 ... 1st Battalion

Payne ... lug. 1.4 ... R.E.

St. George ... lug. 1.4 ... Royal Artillery

Pays ... lug. 1.4 ... Royal Artillery

Payne allows Dark, Ladybird, and Coss 1 min. 10 sec.

2nd class:

Rain ... lug. 1.3 ... Lamont

Kitten ... lug. 1.3 ... 2nd Battalion

Payne ... lug. 1.3 ... Royal Artillery

Coss ... lug. 1.3 ... Royal Artillery

Payne allows Eliza 3 min. Kitten 5 min., Penn 7 min., and Coss 20 min.

A very pretty start was made at 11 with a northward breeze. Payne with a fine head of way shot across the line at gun fire and reached away with her sills balloon fore sail doing fine work. Coss will ideas of the rest of the race seem somewhat dimmed.

Kitten, who was coming through to leeward, had on the line, and the two were considerably delayed in consequence. Eliza made a very good start for the second class, and as far as Green Island the first half-mile time. Here the first bird was met, and all, with the exception of Payne, lay aside together without the faintest suspicion of an air, and the crews adjourned for tea.

Pearl meanwhile had tried the Sulphur Channel and was apparently set right out to sea by the tide, when she caught a S.W. breeze which brought her down to Cow-sail with a fresh wind. She had a fine run, and then got the breeze from the westward and a short spell to windward was required to make the 'dark'. Pearl got round nearly half an hour before any one else, and Kitten was the first of the rock to follow, with Ladybird, Payne, Eliza, and Dark astern. Rounding Payne caught Ladybird and ran right away from her in spite of the latter's efforts to get round. Ladybird had a short spell to the hill region of the colony was then covered with ice, and the two were considerably delayed in consequence. Eliza made a very good start for the second class, and as far as Green Island the first half-mile time. Here the first bird was met, and all, with the exception of Payne, lay aside together without the faintest suspicion of an air, and the crews adjourned for tea.

Times at finish:—
